

Stacy Koogler

Partner & VP of Eastern Region

DNA Consulting

Stacy Koogler is an experienced manager, consultant, trainer, facilitator, & medical professional.

Currently, she is pursuing several professional interests. Stacy is the Vice President and a Partner with DNA Consulting, helping to build cultures of collaboration globally. She focuses on group collaboration, organizational transformation and strategic planning. She also works as an operating room RN specializing in robotic surgeries in Westerville, Ohio.

Experience

Stacy has led engagements as a consultant and trainer with Fortune 100 companies including ConAgra, Frito-Lay, Verizon, and TXU, among others. She has most recently focused on the construction field, working with Joeris, of San Antonio, Texas. She has also developed training tools for the Salvation Army and worked to build collaborative leaders in Bali, Europe and in the US.

Stacy has successfully led and managed regional operations involving the development of multiple levels of management, recruitment, training, and improvement of field sales capabilities.

Stacy has worked with Nobel Peace Prize recipient Betty Williams. She aided in the development of global strategies and organized startup activities to establish Ms. Williams' non-profit World Centers of Compassion for Children International, which helps refugee children worldwide. She has also represented Ms. Williams' organizational interests at events and meetings nationally and internationally.

Stacy is an accomplished facilitator, having designed and facilitated strategy sessions and offsites, multi-stakeholder project work and teams of all types, including, most recently cultural design and engagement teams at a financial institution.

Educational Background

Stacy received a B.A. in History and English with a minor in Business from Texas Christian University, a J.D. from the University of Texas at Austin and an ADN from Collin College.

She and her husband, Rob, reside in Johnstown, Ohio.
